Acta Madfor

Located in a natural yet urban environment, Hotel Acta Madfor is a good option to spend a few unforgettable days resting just minutes away from the city centre. On one side, across the Manzanares river, Casa de Campo, and on the other side, the gardens of the thousand-year-old Debod Temple and Parque del Oeste, neighbouring the centric Plaza de España. In between them is also Príncipe Pío Station, where thousands of Madrilenians from everywhere in the region make use of the numerous public transportation alternatives to make it to their destinations, or go shopping in the shopping centre located inside the station.

One of the major appeals of this hotel, built in the 60’s and featuring a simple decor, is its closeness to San Antonio de la Florida’s chapel. This is the third one of the chapels devoted to Saint Anthony of Padua, which was refurbished in the late 18th century and is particularly rich thanks to the paintings by the great Francisco de Goya. In this site, the hotel has everything necessary to make guests feel at home, ranging from parking facilities, a coffee shop and restaurant, to the terrace-solarium with incredible views.
