

Welcome to Madrid

Close to Plaza de la Paja, in the heart of La Latina neighbourhood, you'll find this café and drinks bar, one of the area's classic establishments. Its famous and eye-catching blue doors attract passers-by into an interior where both the décor and the menu reflect the owners' passion for travel.

A seating area with industrial style chairs and colourful pictures give Delic a happy feel, making it a great place to have a cocktail, one of the many kinds of tea on offer or a delicious afternoon snack. Its display of sweet treats is a real statement of intent, with patisserie from all over the world, ranging from French macarons to traditional American muffins and cakes. The food menu also bear witness to this taste for the exotic, with cous-cous and Chinese noodles rubbing shoulders or a typical marmitako (fish stew).

Delic also serves as a showcase for Bazar Delic, a furniture and home decoration store a few doors along the street, selling furnishings and ornaments from all kinds of far-flung places.
