

Welcome to Madrid

This café-restaurant, located at the Círculo de Bellas Artes, is one of the most famous places in Madrid, combining the classical style of the majestic building by Antonio Palacios (architect of other iconic buildings like Palacio de Cibeles, currently the seat of the city council) with the racket and constant movement of Alcalá Street, one of the busiest streets in Madrid.

Both inside as on its street-side terrace, you can enjoy anything from breakfast to late night drinks, making it an interesting option for a break after the visit to the numerous museums and monuments in the vicinity.

The menu, with their own specialties and cosmopolitan touch, offers a daily set menu 7 days a week. The bar has more than 800 different alcoholic beverages.
