

Welcome to Madrid

At this small shop, they exhibit and sell every ballet pump design by the Minorcan label Mascaró. Ballet shoes were formerly worn exclusively by ballet dancers, but they later became popular throughout the world, after actresses like Audrey Hepburn brought them into fashion.

Lately, this type of shoe has become an indispensable piece in any good wardrobe. They're simple, comfortable, fun and can be worn with a multitude of textures, fabrics and colours. They're easily adapted to any taste and can be combined with everything.

At this shop, you'll find ballet pumps in an infinity of textures and colours. Some have the classic bow or ballet-shoe-style square toe, others are two-tone, Chanel-style or in animal print, for your wilder side. You'll find them in fabric, leather, suede and even in unexpected materials, like glitter. A profusion of creativity based on the most comfortable and simple shoe of all.
