

Madrid en Danza Festival

For three weeks, Madrid will be the centre of European dance, courtesy of a festival that will show, as it's always done, what's on in the world of dance at the local, national and international level. The programme does away with most conventional ideas.

Madrid en Danza's mixture of innovation and tradition is reflected in its combination of acclaimed figures and newcomers. Basically, the festival is aimed at showing new aesthetics and topics in the domestic dance scene while drawing a variety of choreographers and dancers from other countries.

A festival that hosts the performance of shows in different venues, such as Teatros del Canal (Sala Roja, Sala Verde and Sala Negra), Prado Museum, Sala Cuarta Pared, Paco Rabal Cultural Centre, Teatro Real Coliseo de Carlos III or Cardenal Gonzaga Regional Centre of Humanities in La Cabrera.
