

Welcome to Madrid

Twice a year, Madrid becomes a giant runway, showing the most coveted creations of avant-garde couturiers from around the world, both well-established designers and rising stars. In February, the autumn/winter collections are introduced for 2021/2022.

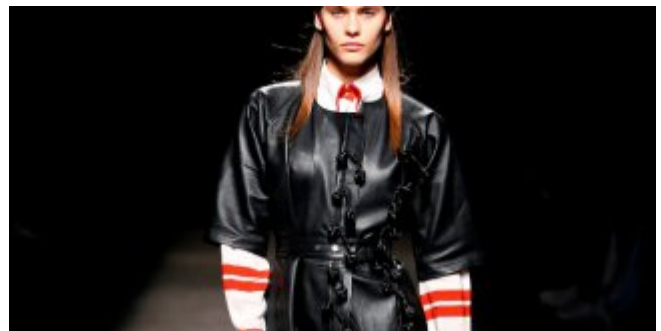

Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week Madrid (MBFWM), a big fashion event in Spain, is introducing its 71th edition, coming with important news and newcomers, aimed at strengthening its position as the leading platform for the Spanish fashion industry and one of the leading events at the international level.

MBFWM is a major event in the global fashion industry: the perfect showcase for those who want their brands to be associated to fashion and new trends.

This year, MBFWM will offer interesting out-of-programme activities, plus six workshops on the creations of some of the greatest Spanish designers, affirming the country's leadership in global fashion and creative diversity.

As in past editions, the final day will be dedicated to emerging designers by Samsung EGO, showing what's going on in the renewal of Spanish fashion.

MBFWM will have leading brands as sponsors: Mercedes-Benz, L'Oréal Paris, Inditex, and many other big players.
