

Welcome to Madrid

Pestilence, one of the most important bands on the international death metal scene, will be in concert to celebrate the 30th anniversary of its album, Testimony of the Ancients. It is a very special performance in which they will review the greatest hits of their career as well as performing the entire 1991 album.

Pestilence is considered to have succeeded in becoming part of the history of death metal. The Dutch group, which got together in 1986, is currently made up of Patrick Mameli, Patrick Uterwijk, Joroen Paul Thesseling and Marco Foddis. Since the members of the band got back together following a musical break, they are now back stronger than ever, surprising all of their fans with intense and explosive music.

The group has released a total of 10 albums, among which we can highlight Resurrection Macabre in 2009 or Doctrine in 2011. On this occasion, the Dutch group aims to exceed the expectations of its most discerning fans with a concert in which it will review the greatest hits of its musical career and will also be accompanied by various invited bands.
